FROM THE PRESIDENT

25 Years of Environmental Living

The year 1952 saw the beginning of the Pine Spring Community as a unique and farsighted concept in housing for this area. The development showed human ingenuity and sensitivity to the environment in terms of housing design and landscaping in a time of bulldozer leveling and mass produced homes.

Twenty-five years later, in 1977, Pine Spring still carries on a tradition born in those original values. Time has aged the community in some ways and the surrounding world is in closer proximity. However, with the continued help of the people living in Pine Spring and the support they provide to its civic association, the Pine Spring community can and will continue to provide creative housing design and maintain a sense of community living to the ultimate benefit of all residents.

I hope that this 25th year will be a source of closer community ties among its residents. This will hopefully be the result of common causes, such as past years have shown, as well as a good neighborly feeling that doesn't suffocate one's individuality.

The civic association is proposing some new programs for this anniversary year that will affect the social and economic interests of the community. Consequently, I hope to welcome all of you at the first meeting of the civic association on September 22, 1977, and look forward to planning this year's program with you.

ASSOCIATION MEETING

The September meeting of the Pine Spring Civic Association will be held on Thursday, September 22, at ~~8:00~~^{7:30} p.m. in the Pine Spring Elementary School auditorium. Refreshments will be served. This is the start of the '77-'78 year, so plan to attend. See page 3 for details.

MEET THE OFFICERS

Brian MacDonald, President

It would be unlikely for anyone not to know the MacDonalds. In the two years since their move here, they have hosted the Spring House and Garden Tour Open House twice, Janice has served on the Hospitality Committee and Brian has served as Treasurer and now President of the civic association.
